

Burcher Jennings Litigation Funding

A natural extension of our Funding for Growth service, and another means of increasing your firm's profitability.

In partnership with a leading funding consultant, we can provide, on a case-by-case basis, expert advice on the full range of funding options.

The economics of litigation are, more than ever, a fundamental part of how clients and lawyers approach contentious matters. Clients want transparency in their potential options for funding cases, and clarity over the potential financial risks and rewards of pursuing their claim.

On the other side of the coin, SRA compliance rules require lawyers to ensure that clients are able to make informed decisions, entering only into fee arrangements that are in their best interests.

Your client may...

- Have a good legal case, but be unable to proceed due to high court fees, legal expenses or cash flow restrictions.
- Want information on the available insurance options, including how they can best be applied to remove the financial risk if the litigation is, ultimately, unsuccessful.
- Wish to explore methods of litigation funding that can be used to pay legal costs in full or in part, without the risk of resorting to the liquidation of fixed assets.

Let us worry about the numbers

Lawyers don't like discussing litigation financing, with good reason: they aren't financial advisers, and the market offers a wide range of finance products for litigation. There is a huge pricing differential between funders, with no one-size-fits-all solution: what is right for one client will be wrong for another.

No-obligation funding consultation

By having a no-obligation consultation with our funding specialist – and, if appropriate, your client – at an early stage in proceedings, you can both ensure that your client gets access to the right funding for their case, and be confident that you've met your SRA obligations. Crucially, you also drive profitability by minimising the risk of the client going elsewhere.

Access to all funding options

Firms are often contacted by funders pushing a particular product. We are not tied to any funder or means of funding, and have long-term relationships with nearly all of the major funders. Whatever your client's circumstances and type of claim, we can present the best options available to them, so that they can make an informed decision.

Pricing and Funding for Growth

Burcher Jennings Litigation Funding dovetails with our other services. We can ensure that your pricing approach – such as the use of a CFA – works with, not against, your client's potential funding options. And where your client is unlikely or unable to obtain funding or insurance, we can advise on whether the firm could take out Funding for Growth to finance the case, and cover the risk with ATE insurance.

“The current litigation climate requires all law firms to engage properly with funding opportunities. Now more than ever, funding is an essential element of every case. Solicitors need to be alive to its importance, both in their clients' best interests and for the success of their own practice.”
